

Still Photography

Digital photography is suitable for all forms of image capturing, especially on-site locations where light is variable and there is a need to view the images before leaving site.

Once taken, these images can be downloaded on a CD-Rom via a laptop in various resolutions ready for use in publications, digital presentations or web sites.

Whilst the age of the digital image is upon us where and when required we can still provide a conventional film and transparency service for our clients.

We also provide for our clients a scanning service for both slides and old photographs to CD or DVD.
